

Crime in Bucks County Cost the Taxpayers $400,000 During '52

Comprehensive Report of Business Handled by Clerk of Quarter Sessions

Crime in Bucks county during the year of 1952 cost the taxpayers of the county approximately $400,000.

A comprehensive report of the business handled by the office of the Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court of Bucks County, shows clearly that immediate increases of office space is necessary, and that many of the so-called criminal laws should be amended.

Deputy Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court, Walter Schroeder, who has conducted that office efficiently for a number of years, has completed a report of the past year's activities.

"Especially should the criminal laws in felony cases be amended," Schroeder declared. "Only four percent of those convicted of homicide, for instance, reach the electric chair. Laws concerning burglary, robbery, sex offenders could also be satisfactorily changed."

The estimated $400,000 crime bill in Bucks last year included pay of jurors, constables, justice of the peace, witnesses, maintenance of Bucks County Prison, board of prisoners in State institutions, dependent children under the supervision of Juvenile Court.

In consequence of the natural growth of population in Bucks county during 1952, the Quarter Sessions office performed more work in the handling of all the phases of crime and miscellaneous recording, than in any time in the history of Bucks County. It was approximately a 20 percent increase over the previous year.

There were 453 defendants before the Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer Courts during the past year. From a crime standpoint this increase is favorable.

"It shows that our increased number of municipal police, the State Police and county detectives, better transcripts from better."

Trash Disposal Survey To Soon Be Completed

The completed garbage and rubbish disposal survey being made in the lower Bucks county area by Penna. Economy League, Inc., in cooperation with the Bucks County Planning Commission, should "definitely" be in the hands of the Planning Commission "by early spring" according to Herman L. Otto, executive secretary of the League. He said he "feels sure" that the survey will be completed by that time.

Otto said that the survey is an overall study of the problem of disposing of garbage and rubbish in the "general lower Bucks area" and what problems this matter may pose for the "future as well as the present."

"The League is now gathering material for study and preparing this material," said Otto. "We have contacted nearly all the municipalities involved in the study," he stated. The study of the garbage and rubbish picture in lower Bucks county was begun in December following a meeting of the League with the County Planning Commission.

The report to Bristol borough school district of the results of a study of the borough school system he said is not yet completed. "We anticipate completion during February," he stated.

REPRESENTATIVE KING IN CAPITOL OFFICE

Powerful Pennsylvania

Congressman King, No Longer A Freshman, Is Now Really Beginning to Hit His Stride Representing The Bucks-Lehigh District

(This is the fifth of a series of articles on key figures in Washington of special interest to Bucks Countians.)

By J. Paul Pedigo

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — No longer a "freshman," Congressman Karl C. King, representing the Bucks-Lehigh district of Pennsylvania, is now really beginning to hit his stride at Washington.

First elected in a special election in the summer of 1951 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Albert C. Vaughn, Mr. King was re-elected that fall and therefore has served a few months more than one full term.

Since he came to Washington at a time when the Democrats were busy cutting down Republican representation on committees, no longer range opening for committee work offered itself at period.

Now, however, with the Republicans in control and with Pennsylvania standing high on the preferred list because of its key position in Capitol Hill affairs, Mr. King has just been awarded the coveted seat on the House Agricultural Committee, work for which his background as operator of the largest single-unit produce farm East of the Mississippi amply qualifies him.

Congressman King also was given an office in the "new" building (Room 1306) instead of the quarters in the old building he occupied last year. The two buildings housing the Representatives' offices are equidistant from the Capitol—across the street in fact. But the conveniences of the newer building are somewhat better; it contains many of the Pennsylvania leaders such as the dean, Congressman Simpson; and in addition to that, the hearing room of the Agricultural committee is on the same floor with Mr. King.

Congressman King succeeds a list of Lehigh County citizens sent to the House of Representatives from the Bucks-Lehigh District during the past twenty years.

No question was ever raised seriously by Bucks county during this period as to why Lehigh County should have the Congressman, since the northern sister in the district has been much the larger and, being more industrialized, has had much the greater number of problems needing Washington attention.

When the $400,000,000 Fairless Steel plant was started at Morrisville, however, bringing in an influx of population expected shortly to reach 60,000 or more, Bucks County advanced the proposition

Following final action on this phase of the church's program, the minister, the Rev. Ralph E. Proud, Jr., presented program suggestions which after action by the board, was accepted as the spring and Lenten program of the church. Growth of Accounting Records is Reviewed

J. A. Eiseman is Heard On "What to Look For in Audit Reports"

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 22 — John A. Eiseman, assistant treasurer of Penna. Co. for Banking and Trusts, spoke at the monthly meeting of Bucks Co. Bankers Ass'n, Monday evening, in Doylestown Inn. Mr. Eiseman spoke on "What to Look for in Audit Reports."

He reviewed growth of accounting records, pointing out that not too many years ago the records of most businesses consisted simply of a "Cash in and cash out" statement. "The federal government's imposing a tax on income is greatly responsible for the growth and need for accounting records. Financial statements are merely efforts to reduce the physical assets of a business to dollars and cents and to portray them as a statement creating a mental picture of the business."

"It is desirable for all businesses to have audit made of their statements not only to verify the exactness of the figures but more particularly to obtain specialized knowledge of an accountant. Many statements of business concerns are misleading, not because of an intention of management to deceive either themselves or others but rather because the business has grown too big for management to watch all phases of the business. The independent examination of a competent accountant of the re-

FEDERAL JOBS FOR AGED

There may be more than one good reason for the decision by the Civil Service Commission to drop the regulation barring people over 62 from applying for federal jobs. At a time when the demand for labor is strong and steady, the competition of private enterprise is likely to put government at a disadvantage—despite wage controls. In the public service an employee's pay may not rise fast enough to meet the grocery bills, so some leave and posts go begging. If older workers can handle the jobs, why not employ them? It seems clear, however, that the commission's attitude has been influenced by the change that has been taking place in the thinking of the American people on the whole question of retirement. As more and more employers have been making retirement at 65 mandatory, more and more doubts have arisen about the validity of the practice.

Objections have been voiced by persons who still have vigorous years ahead of them at that age—and there are many of them. Meanwhile the population experts have pointed out that the lengthening life span means that the nation is growing older and that the time may be coming when relatively few younger persons will have to support a relatively large number of the elderly.

This change in orientation is healthy. Understanding of this subject has grown with experience and it is obvious that the problem is not to be solved once and for all by compulsory retirement at any particular age. The commission has acted wisely in ruling that persons over 62 can take its examinations, in urging that federal agencies give more thought to hiring older people, and in setting up regulations for the temporary employment of those over 70.

BACK TO THE 'IRON MEN'

The two-division system in football has come in for a lot of mild razzing, but most sports enthusiasts weren't aware of any strong public opposition to it, and a recent poll of coaches showed them 4 to 1 in favor of keeping the system. It comes as a surprise, then, for the Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to decide to ban unlimited substitutions, the basis of the system.

The system made for better football. Other things being equal, a team that used it could beat a team that didn't. Players specializing in defense or offense alone became more expert because they got more practice in their specialty.

Under the old system players good at defense but poor at offense, or vice versa, spent most of their time warming the bench.

The football pros like the system fine, and aren't likely to change it when the colleges do. But college presidents and administrators contend it cost too much to maintain two teams, plus substitutes, instead of one.

Crime in County

equipped justices of the peace, better constables, and the swift justice had handed out by the courts—all go to make better court efficiency.

"This condition has discouraged hoodlums, thugs and crooks from the big metropolitan centers from coming to Bucks county, and it has given the county a good reputation by holding crime to a minimum."

There were 311 juveniles in the Bucks county juvenile court in 1952, marked by an increase of neglected children and dependent children. Many of the dependent class were of lower mentality, making it difficult for the court to place them due to the fact that Pennsylvania has no suitable school for the rehabilitation of these children.

There was an absence of "peanut and candy baby juveniles" in 1952. Deputy Schroeder points out, "This is the group of children committing delinquencies of less than $1 one dollar."

During 1952 there were 66 trials by jury in Bucks county, taking 82 court days, the biggest "criminal court business" in the history of the county. Motor law violations numbered 140, making up 27 percent of the cases. More motor violations were certified to Harrisburg last year than any previous year.

The amount of costs collected by the Quarter Sessions office amounted to $16,218.92 and fines collected amounted to an additional $22,825.65. Cash bail handled amounted to $39,000.

Domestic Relations Officer Horace E. Gwinner and his staff handled 84 new desertion and non-support cases, with an additional 34 for hearings for modification of support orders; 17 attachments for failure to appear; 8 bench warrants for contempt of court.

Mr. Gwinner's office paid approximately $157,000 for non-support of wives and children under his jurisdiction for the year 1952. His office also handled 44 persons on probation.

Disposition of the Quarter Sessions cases for the past calendar year: Murder, 1; manslaughter, 7; robbery, 6; aggravated assault and battery, 17; minor assault, 28; burglary, 36; larceny, 26; embezzlement and fraud, 6; forgery and counterfeiting, 7; rape, 9; commercialized vice, 3; other sex offenses, 17; deadly weapons, 3; non-support and neglect, 84; liquor laws, 11; driving while drunk, 91; other motor violations, 49; nuisance, 1; gambling, 14; arson, 2; bigamy, 1; escape from jail, 3; cases dismissed or not-prosessed, 93; acquitted by the court, 3; acquitted by jury, 11; total discharged, 167.

There were 229 plead guilty cases handled during the year. The court found 62 guilty and 55 were found guilty by juries.

For the first time in the history of Bucks county, the traditions of four terms of court was changed in 1952 to five terms. In previous years, following grand jury session, there were two consecutive weeks of traverse jury court. Now a grand jury session is followed by a lapse of two weeks; then traverse jury, then another lapse of four weeks and a traverse jury—five times a year.

"This may be of great help to the Court and the District Attorney's office but it is a rather complicated matter in the office of Quarter Sessions to handle the files especially in an office that has been overcrowded for years," Deputy Schroeder contends.

The Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court is Lamont Marsh, of Bristol. The chief deputy is Mr. Schroeder, and there are two women deputies, Mrs. Mary Dunn and Mrs. Elizabeth Degen, the only women to hold a deputy Quarter Sessions position in Pennsylvania.

Bucks county was listed as a fifth class county as of 1950, with a population of 144,700, doing the work of a fourth class county and fast approaching that of a third class county.

Appeals from laws of zoning, ordinances by school boards on trailer taxes, appeals from Liquor Control Board, added roads and bond issues, special elections, are all recorded and certified by the Quarter Session office.

Of special interest other items handled included referendums in the townships of Bensalem and Warminster, and a controversial matter in Bristol township, Falls township and Tullytown Borough where an effort is being made to change boundary lines of those districts.

The Quarter Sessions office has been able to perform all the duties assigned and with larger quarters for 1953 almost a certainty in the near future, a still greater amount of efficiency is certain. The Quarter Sessions work also included thousands of letters of correspondence.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — (INS)

— People should get busy as bees and get more bees busy. That was the theme of a recent meeting of the New Mexico Bee-keepers Association in Albuquerque. President W. D. Chiles of the association said there are fewer commercial bee raisers today than ten years ago. The convention delegates discussed ways of getting more people into the honey bee business.

Discusses School Burden

The factors to be considered in planning school buildings were listed as: 1. school population; 2. ability of the district to finance the program; 3. existing buildings or facilities; 4. public opinion.

Figures on population five years ago, today, and what can be expected during the next several years were listed. The four boroughs, Hulmeville, Penndel, Langhorne, and Langhorne Manor, together with townships of Middletown and Lower Southampton, five years ago had a school population of 1450, which today has increased to 2,450. "In the next five years pupil population will increase perhaps 2,000," said Dr. Heckman as he presented facts bearing out such expectation. In the first grade this year there are 330 pupils. Figures for various grades were given, number decreasing as the grades advance.

Dr. Heckman expressed belief that in five years pupil population in the first six grades will be over 2,000, and in the junior-senior high school, 1,500, not counting the families from new housing developments. "We are told that 275 houses will be built on two tracts in the Lower Southampton twp. before the end of 12 months; and 600 houses are planned by the Levitt firm in Middletown twp." With the average of 13 pupils per house, the expected increase from new units was given as over 1100. The necessity for planning ahead rather than having more pupils placed on half sessions was impressed upon the audience.

Dr. Heckman then considered where the tax burden falls, and told of need for readjustment in thinking. "It is not a matter of our school buildings not being good enough, but of them being inadequate in size," he continued. The assessment increases were mentioned briefly, the expected assessment in the area next year being given as $15,000,000, or approximately 30% of the property value of $45,000,000. On the matter of equalization, Dr. Heckman gave hint of need for some changes when he informed that some lots, with assessment values of $50, are now selling for as much as $3,000. "I feel the state's move to reassess on an equal basis is in fairness to all taxpayers."

The variations in taxes in the six political sub-divisions within the school district were listed—some having real estate transfer tax imposed, some personal tax and others none, some amusement and some occupation tax. How the reimbursements from the state vary for the districts was mentioned, this being according to the amount of wealth back of each pupil.

When it came to existing school buildings in the district, Dr. Heckman stated there are 16, with six being one-room schools. "However they differ from the usual conception of one-room schools, in that they are graded. The one-room units increase the cost of education. There must be a janitor for each unit. Each school group wants a radio, phonograph, and some ask for motion picture machines. We have to explain that motion picture machines are too costly to have one for a grade. The one-room unit is expensive education. There is not as much inspiration for the teachers as there is in buildings where they can mingle with other teachers. . . . But we will continue to use these units for several years to come. . . . Next year we hope to have the present high school building released for elementary use, but some half-day sessions will continue next year." The speaker expressed the belief that by 1954-55 "we will have all high school pupils back on half-day sessions." In this connection he said: "Education requires time for assimilation. Half sessions are not as good as full-day sessions. The teachers may like it for certain reasons, and some parents may go along with it. . . . Lower Bucks county has one of the most difficult situations in the state. It is a serious burden, and it requires the attention of every citizen."

Public attitude toward the schools was discussed. "I'm asking for the buildings I am certain we need. I am not asking for anything more than the law requires. . . . Teachers take pride in seeing children achieve. Your attitude toward the schools, their needs and requirements, will be a most important factor in determining the kind of schools we will have. We have lost teachers to other districts. I would like to keep the teachers we have, for I feel they are doing a good job. . . . In the final analysis you are the people who will make the decisions as to the type of schools we will have in this area."

Business was carried out with dispatch. Minutes and treasurer's report were given by Miss Irma Peoples and Miss Margaret Perry, respectively. It was announced that another date will be sought for a dinner at Hothorn which had been cancelled due to stormy weather. Transportation for pupils to Phila. for dental care is to be provided.

Mrs. Herbert Rongley, Middletown twp., informed there are not quite sufficient children eating at the school cafeteria to make it a paying proposition.

Attendance award went to grade two, taught by Miss Perry. This announcement was by Principal Frank Binder.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Arthur Troyano, Mrs. Fred Foster, and Mrs. Joseph Mucklow, Jr.

meetings at which time ideas and suggestions were gathered and exchanged for each grade level concerned. All meetings had a moderator and a recorder appointed and a summary of the reports will be prepared for use by all teachers.

The administrators of the district met at four o'clock to plan further activities for the district in the coming months.

The general theme of the day was "Education is not a Destination—it is a Journey. Always we are en route."—Peabody.

It was May 23, 1945, that Heinrich Himmler, Nazi Gestapo chief, committed suicide.

NEWTOWN

At the meeting of Newtown Council of Churches and Meetings held in the Presbyterian Church, Jan. 15th, it was reported Mrs. Roland W. Porter and Dr. Alexander J. Strathie have been appointed to represent Newtown Presbyterian Church on the council for two years. Alternates are Mrs. Russell Janney and J. Wardell Ettenger. The meeting was conducted by Rev. J. Laurence Carr. Mrs. William Eves, 3rd, reported for George Haynes of the community service committee. The council recommended a national day of prayer, which was observed Jan. 20th. Dr. John E. Mertz, and the Rev. Edmund T. Sills were named members of a nominating committee. Among those giving reports were: Floyd Miller, youth council committee; Mrs. William S. Kenderdine, basketball team; Dr. Strathie, Boy Scout work.

Leadership Course To Open Here for Girl Scouts

Classes Will Be Held In The Harriman Methodist Church, Here

The opening session of a Group Leadership Course for new and prospective Girl Scout Leaders will be held on Tuesday evening, January 27, at 7:45 p. m. to 9:45 p. m., at the Harriman Methodist Church, Wilson Avenue and Harrison Street, Bristol.

The course will continue every Tuesday evening for eight weeks and will cover Troop program and self government, Troop Finance, working with Troop Committees, Out of Door Activities and various other phases of Girl Scouting. All three scout age groups are considered—Brownies, who are in second through fourth grades; Intermediates, in fifth through eighth grade; and Seniors who are in high school. Twenty-five people from Fallsington, Bristol, Croydon, Edgely and Levittown are registered for the course. It is hoped that people interested in organizing new troops for girls next fall will take either this course or the one that will be given later in the spring.

Anyone who wishes to take the course and who is not already registered call the Girl Scout office (Doylestown 9461).

The death rate for tuberculosis last year was less than half that of 1945. However, the known number of active cases of tuberculosis has not declined in the same degree.

There has been very little decline in the last twenty years. Improved case finding procedures and increased length of life of patients are partly responsible.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA...

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

TEXT BOOK EXHIBIT

Residents of Bucks County interested in studying references in school textbooks, to Russia and Communism are again invited to visit the special county exhibit of history, geography and civics texts used in Bucks County Schools. The exhibit is held at the County Education Building, West and Ashland streets, Doylestown. The texts are so marked as to facilitate a quick review of all references to Russia and Communism made in every book. Invitations were issued to residents for a similar exhibit last year.

Members of the county school staff have reviewed the texts exhibited and have indicated that these books represent those in general use in the country's schools. They have also reported that textbooks are commonly selected upon the recommendation of special teacher committees, who carefully scrutinize all text references to Russia and Communism. These books reveal that all authors do not attempt to keep students ignorant of the vast sections of the earth now populated by Russia and her allies, instead the importance of Russia has dictated that more space be given to that country than in prewar texts. Reviewers have not discovered any pro-Communist bias.

The only complaints registered with county officials thus far have concerned the obsolescence of texts in history in isolated cases and also the lack in singular instances, of up to date reference material. High school texts usually have been of a reasonably current copyright and with the advent of elementary school supervisors, the elementary school texts have been as carefully selected and have been of current editions.

BUCKS CO. MUSIC FESTIVAL

At a recent meeting of Bucks Co. Music Educators' Ass'n, Mrs. Helen Buckman, president, reported the date for Bucks county music festival will be March 7th, at 8:15 in auditorium of new Central Bucks high school. This festival is the third annual one which this association has sponsored. The two previous ones were held in Bristol and Pennsbury high schools.

Starred will be an orchestra, senior and junior high school choruses, composed of musical students chosen from 15 schools of Bucks county. The schools participating will be: Bristol h. s., Bristol twp., Centennial schools, Central Bucks h. s., Council Rock h. s., Delhaas h. s., Deep Run Valley h. s., Doylestown twp., Morrisville h. s., Neshaminy h. s., Palisades Joint schools, Pennsbury Joint school, Plumstead twp., Sellersville-Perkasie h. s., U. Southampton-Warminster h. s., and New Hope-Solebury high school.

Conductors are chosen from members of Bucks Co. Music Educators' Ass'n. Conductors are: Orchestra, Kenneth Bachman, Bristol h. s., and Robert Miller, Delhaas h. s.; junior high chorus, Mrs. Erma Newhart, Centennial Schools, and Mrs. Erna McKeivitt, Bristol twp.; senior high chorus, Mrs. Joan Franks, Neshaminy h. s., and Miss Sarah Cherry, Delhaas h. s.

IN-SERVICE MEETING AT MAKEFIELD

"The Function of a Primary Division in the Elementary School"

was the subject at the in-service program for primary teachers (kindergarten through grade three) in Makefield school building Jan. 21st.

Consultant was Dr. Warren Cocklin, superintendent of schools in Upper Merion twp.; and observers were: Dr. Morton Botel, Bucks Co. reading specialist; Mrs. Melda Snyder, Bucks Co. elementary supervisor; Mrs. Sara Buckley, Sellersville-Perkasie elementary supervisor; Miss Thompson Baxter, Neshaminy district elementary supervisor.

For the various groups which were set up, there was parent representation from L. Makefield, Fallsington, Fairless Hills and Yardley. There were sessions arranged in the morning and in afternoon.

NEWS OF THE LEVITTOWN COMMUNITY

Millers Met in Casablanca, Lived 2 Years in Hawaii

Both Were in 7th Army; He in Signal Corps, She Was Nurse

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 22 — War-torn Casablanca was the meeting place of an Army officer and nurse who courted in Sicily and Italy, were married in Texas, lived in Hawaii and now reside, as civilians, at 82 Edgewood lane.

The couple are Daniel J. Miller and his wife, Louise, who have two daughters, Carol, five, and Barbara Ann, 3½ months old. They moved to Levittown Nov. 20 from Paoli.

Mr. Miller was born in New York, N. Y., and his wife in Kingston. Both were with the 7th Army when they met in Casablanca, in 1942, and were later sent to Sicily and Italy. He returned to the States from Italy, and she went on to France and Germany before being returned home.

Mrs. Miller's outfit, the 59th Evacuation Hospital Unit, hit the southern shores of France six hours after the invasion began, and won the presidential unit citation. She returned to the U. S. and was stationed in Texas when they were married in the Lone Star State.

Mr. Miller was transferred from the Army Signal Corps to the Air Force. Soon after their marriage, he was assigned to Hickam Field, Hawaii, for two years, and took with him his wife, who had left the Army. Carol was born in Hawaii.

A two-year assignment in the Pentagon Building, Washington,

D. C., followed his Hawaiian duty. He left the Air Force, as a captain, 1½ years ago, and went to work for the Catalytic Construction Co., of Phila., as expediter.

Mr. Miller was a lawyer before entering service. His is a graduate of St. John's University Law School. His wife studied nursing at Episcopal Hospital, Phila., and was a nurse in Bryn Mawr Hospital before joining the Army.

Know Your Neighbor---

A series of Articles Introducing the New Residents of Levittown to The Community.

(By Staff Reporter)

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 22—When his slate walk began sinking into the mud, Dwight J. Tredway used red and green concrete blocks to pave the path to the front door of his home at 59 Edgewood lane.

He laid a thin layer of concrete first, and then set the blocks upon it. Instead of cementing the chinks between the blocks, he put soil there to provide drainage.

Mr. Tredway is also putting his ingenuity to work in the utility room, which will soon be a "rumpus room." He covered the composition walls with a "plaster" paint, brushed in to give the appearance of a cellar wall. He built a bar in the rumpus room, getting the top from an old kitchen table, and using tiles for the barfront.

He plans to hang a dartboard in the room. Come Spring, Mr. Tredway and his wife, Mabel, will build a barbecue pit outdoors.

Golf is another hobby with Mr. Tredway, and he has several trophies. In recent tournaments for Frankford Arsenal, where he was recently stationed in the Army and now works as a civilian, he won the golf championship for low gross and the longest drive.

He has a championship trophy from the Philmont Country Club, and became the golf champion of Parsons, Kansas, when he was stationed there in the Army.

The Tredways, with their children, Judy, six, and Gary, three, moved here Nov. 20, shortly after he was discharged from the Army as a lieutenant. Mr. Tredway was in service 11 years. He spent 4½ years overseas, including several months fighting in a British unit in Africa.

Mr. Tredway was born in Pittsburgh, and his wife is from Media. He met her in Phila. after he had returned from a tour of duty in Europe and was sent to the city to keep order during a PTC strike.

Mr. Tredway took his family with him to Maryland, Georgia and Kansas, when assigned to Army stations in those states. He is now employed by Pittman-Dunn Laboratories, at Frankford Arsenal.

Miss Chris is the name of the Tredways' attractive eight-month-old collier.

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 22 — Joseph C. Bullaro and his wife, Joyce, of 74 Edgewood lane, plan to furnish their living room in modern-style with lined oak.

They moved in Jan. 16, and are still shopping for furniture. Mrs. Bullaro is making drapes and matching slip covers for their new home. The Bullaros have a seven-month-old daughter, Linda.

The parents are native Trentonians. Mrs. Bullaro attended Trenton Central High School.

Mr. Bullaro is a labor foreman for Walsh, Perrini, Slattery and Groves, contractors engaged in construction of the U. S. Steel Fairless Works. He was in the Army during World War II, and served in the European theater.

His wife used to work for the Westinghouse Electric Corp. Lamp Division, in Trenton, inspecting, packing and testing the finished lamps. She handled 1,200 in an hour.

June 14th each year is observed as flag day, the anniversary of the day on which the design was adopted in 1777.
